Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Chicago, Ill. crease, the panicky feeling will subside, confidence in mone ary affairs will be restored and money will circulate again freely. The loss of confidence among money holders is responsible in a great degree for the stringency in the money market and the restoration of the feeling of security which should prevail will induce the people to again float their money in the ordinary channels so that borrowers ness transactions which depend upon the lioating of commercial paper be continued. In a newspaper interview Saturday, Hon. Mr. Chauney M. Depew, a prominent financer, said concerning the financial condition:

"It is largely a matter o' sentiment. If the people believe there is enough money in the country to do business on-there is enough; but if on the other hand they have an impression that there is not sufficient money, they withdraw their savings from the banks, lose their interest, which the banker gains, and the next day when they discover that the bank is perfectly safe, and that the business world has not collapsed, they carry their savings back to the bank again. I believe that the financi-

Steam Vessel Pirst Used as a Transport. There is a curious fact that may have been overlooked—that troops withdrawn from Canada upon the close of the American war of 1812-15 for the purpose of joining the army intended to crush of joining the army intended to crush Napoleon after his return from Elba were transported down the St. Lawrence by a Cauadian steamer. This was probably the first occasion on which a steam vessel was used for purposes of military transport.—Toronto News.

A SACRIFICE.

It is only a little story. I picked it up apon the beach of Oahu, among the fish-ing buts under Diamond Head in those beautiful Sandwich Islands. I shall tell the story imperfectly, knowing so little as I do about the locality and the language, but I asked three or four questions afterward as to the Hawaiian words and phrases and what follows is, as far as I can remember, the manner in which it was related:

They are wonderful swimmers in the Saturday, April 29, is the day marked | Sandwich Islands, as in almost all those clusters of the Pacific archipelagoes, and on which Noah and his family quitted the ark after having withstood the stege of the great delage. The day is marked in all ancient calendars, especially British, as egressus Noae do area; the 17th their home as the land. Fishing is quite ish, as egressus Noae de area; the 17th of March, the day upon which Noah, his family and their great floating collection of natural history specimens set sail, being designated in the same class of the creatures of the deep and of the reef as well as of the birds of the grove and mountain slope. With nots of the Noae in area, "the day of Noah's entrance into the ark." Why these days were chosen as the ones upon which the supposed entarkation and debarkation were made are enigmas which the antiquariams have not yet solved.—St. Louis Elepublic. infoxicates every fish coming within the influence of its juice. Excellent boatmen, in spite of the primitive character of the native canoes, they make adventurous runs from island to island and are especially skillful in handling a little craft in the midst of surf of great breaking billows. It is a sight to see a Eawaiian cance coming ashere with or without the ma—an outrigger of light wood which steadies the frail craft. The sea birds skimming over the rollers do not seem more at home in the middle of the hugo Pacific surf than the brown skinned Kanakas paddling to laud from a fishing or sailing excursion in the evening. They under-stand the tricks and dangers of the coral barrier which they must cross and take the enormous wave which rolls over it with shouts of excitement and delight. If they are capsized, it is nothing to them so long as no sharks are about. They really make the white and blue breakers their playfellows in their popnlar sport of hee nain, or surf swinming, where a party of these laughing water babies of all ages, naked except for a wreath of seaweed or a whisp of bark cloth, will go down to the reef's edge at sunset, carrying long light boards of koawood, 8 feet long and 18 inches broad, and swells for its outer line of long billow.

Then, turning their faces eneroward, they lie down flat upon the plank, bal-ancing themselves upon it and holding it with feet and hands straight along the glassy back of the great roller, which toams, curls, leaps and thunders under them as they tear along tossed like bul-bles amid the milky spune and the whirling sea lace, until they come drenched and shining to the shore or into the placid green water inside the reef. The very babics learn to swim al-most before they are able to toddle, and

But one must be strong and well and unencumbered for these long swims, and a sick man cannot sport with the ocean in such a fearless way, which is why Mina-Mina lost her firstborn and bought with his little hife her husband's safety. We passed her wellcang with a string of fish and a little child upon her arms under the palm trees near Leuli, and my friend—an old resident—gave her goodday in the musical Hawaiian, calling her by the name I have mentioned.

The land—which meant rest, which peeped well forth from the water as his mother struck out by the side of her hus-band for the shore under Koko head. Although this lay fully two leagues would not be more than two miles to traverse. Mina-Mina, with the long black hair knotted on her head still full away, there was nothing in the situation greatly to disconcert a Hawaiian family. If only the young husband had been in of scaked hibiscus flowers, was swin ming bravely, keeping the boy's tiny his proper strength, he would have shifted the baby to his own shoulders, and side by side, while the sea grew quist was still and the current safely passed again, they would have managed to make when her ears missed the regular beat of their long swim to land if no shark in Manae's arms behind her. Mina-Mina soon found that her man could not keep the baby's head and his own at the same time above the water, Tho little brown inp was nevertheless laughing and crowing at the sparkling waves without any fear or trouble, and when she drew him down beside her in the sea and let him paddle for a cable's length or so the tiny castaway swam like a small fish, and all three were making fair progress. In the moment of the capsizo they had fallan into the sea of course fully clothed, but both had since loosened and cast aside in the water their garments of tapa for freer swimming, although Mina-Mina still retained her waist band, in which she kept her fishing louife.

Why? Why is Strictly Pure White Lead the best paint? Because if will outlast all other paints, give a handsomer finish, better protection to the wood, and the first cost will be less.

I hand side the province more than the brilliant of the wood, and the first cost will be less.

I hand side the privilence of the wrong of the wood, and the first cost will be less.

I hand side the best paint? Because if will be less.

I he prayer of said petition is that you as John Lichty, of Belvidere, Franklin courty, ennested Abna lich y and Fittence Lichty.
